In some applications, user equipment performs communication with other user equipment by using a data bearer. There is a need for a method of optimizing a spectrum resource to be effectively used. In the prior art, the solution of the optimization is mainly manifested in the following two aspects: For the first aspect, an objective function is set according to a predefined objective, and then the optimization is performed according to a certain algorithm. For example, a spectrum resource optimized solution is set, and then a total power consumption of the user equipment is calculated, and finally a frequency and a power consumption of each resource is calculated according to a predefined algorithm. For example, a parameter of a preset objective function is changed, and then the spectrum resource is optimized according to a corresponding algorithm. However, this manner fails to reflect the relationship between a degree of satisfaction of a certain user and a resource optimization solution, and thus may lead to a poor spectrum resource optimization result. For the second aspect, a degree of satisfaction of a certain user is used
